

RATIONAL ATHEISM??

Many disbelieve in the existence of God because they value reason over faith. How then can they rationally argue that either of the statements below is true?

- Matter and energy have always existed.
- Matter and energy created themselves.

If the truth of these two statements has no rational basis, would not the most rational conclusion be that atheism requires faith?

